"The time has come,"
the walrus said,
"To talk of many things:
Of shoes ~ and ships ~
And sealing wax ~
Of cabbages and kings."

Lewis Carroll

Mad Hatter '75

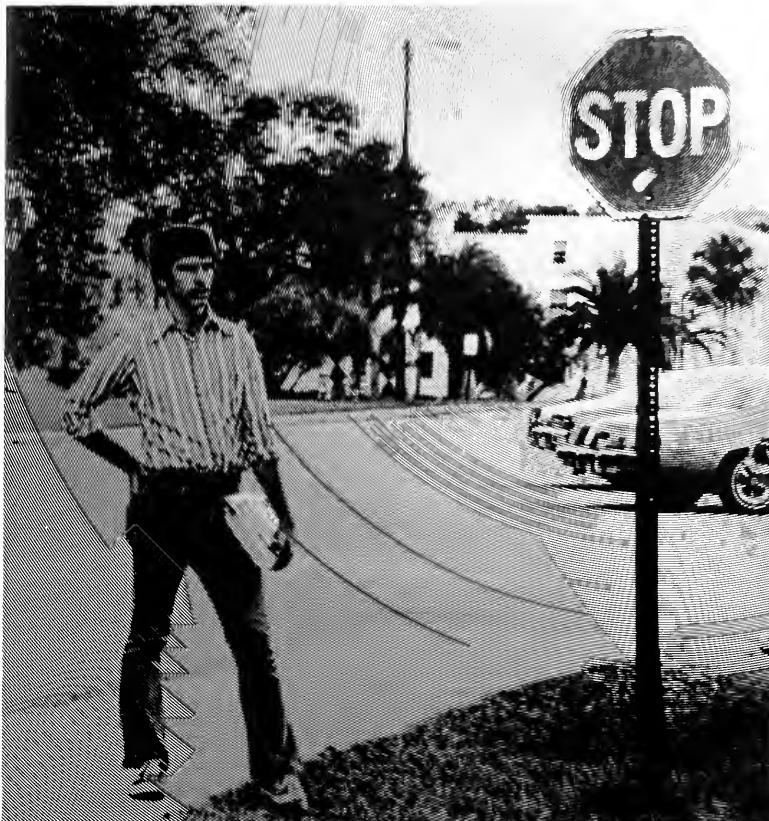

Stetson University, Deland, Florida

The following nonsense has been quoted from Lewis Carroll's extraordinary fantasies — Alice In Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass.

"In another moment down went Alice after it, never once considering how in the world she was to get out again."

"Would you tell me, please, which way I ought to walk from here?"
"That depends a good deal on where you want to get to," said the Cat.
"I don't care where." "Then it doesn't matter which way you walk," said the Cat.

"—so long as I get somewhere," "Oh you're sure to do that," said the Cat, "if you only walk long enough!"

"But I don't want to go among mad people," Alice remarked.
"Oh you can't help that," said the Cat; "we're all mad here. I'm mad. You're mad." "How do you know I'm mad?" said Alice. "You must be," said the Cat, "or you wouldn't have come here."

"I can't tell you just now what the moral of that is, but I shall remember it in a bit."

"The horror of that moment,' the king went on,
'I shall never, never forget!'"

"There they lay sprawling about, reminding her very much of a globe of gold fish she had accidentally upset the week before."

"If you'll believe in me,
I'll believe in you. Is that a bargain?"

"I think I should understand that better, if I had it written down; but I can't quite follow it as you say it."

"She just kept the tips of her fingers on the handle, and floated gently down without even touching the stairs with her feet."

"Who are you?" said the Caterpillar. "I hardly know, sir, just at present—at least I know who I was when I got up this morning, but I think I must have been changed several times since then."

"The King was saying, 'I assure you, my dear, I turned cold to the very ends of my whiskers!'"

"They were indeed a queer-looking party that assembled on the bank . . . the animals with their fur clinging close to them, and all dripping wet . . ."
